ROUND ROCK, TX

Round Rock, Texas is a key city in the Greater Austin metropolitan area, located just 15 miles north of downtown Austin. The city has grown significantly due to its strategic location along the I-35 corridor and continues to attract both residents and businesses. Round Rock is home to the global headquarters of Dell Technologies, a major driver of employment and economic output. Other sectors supporting the economy include healthcare, advanced manufacturing, education, and retail. The city benefits from strong infrastructure and proximity to a skilled labor force from nearby universities and colleges.

In addition to its business environment, Round Rock offers a range of activities and amenities. It has several parks, a minor league baseball stadium, and easy access to outdoor recreation in the Central Texas region. The city is also known for its public schools and growing residential developments, drawing in families and professionals from across the state. Continued population growth, corporate presence, and regional connectivity position Round Rock as a central hub in the Austin-Round Rock metro economy.

AUSTIN MAJOR EMPLOYERS

AUSTIN, TX MSA

Austin, Texas, is the state capital, located in central Texas along the Colorado River. It is known for its live music scene, outdoor spaces, and growing economy. The city has a strong mix of cultural, business, and recreational opportunities, attracting residents and visitors. With a rapidly expanding population and a reputation as a hub for innovation, Austin continues to be a major center for business and entertainment in Texas.

The economy is driven by technology, education, government, and entertainment. Major tech companies, including startups and large corporations, contribute to job growth, making the city a key player in the tech industry. The University of Texas supports research, education, and business development. Government jobs provide stability, while the music, film, and tourism industries attract visitors year-round. The city has a strong entrepreneurial culture, with business incentives and a growing number of small businesses. Outdoor recreation, a diverse food scene, and a variety of festivals add to Austin's economic and cultural appeal.

ECONOMY

Austin, Texas, has a diverse and growing economy driven by technology, government, education, and tourism. The city is home to major tech companies, startups, and research institutions, making it a hub for innovation. The University of Texas at Austin contributes to workforce development and research. The presence of state government offices also provides economic stability. Tourism, fueled by music festivals and cultural events, adds to local revenue.

The job market in Austin is strong, with a focus on software, engineering, and healthcare. The cost of living has risen due to housing demand, but no state income tax offsets some expenses. Infrastructure development supports population growth, though traffic congestion remains a challenge. Renewable energy and manufacturing sectors are expanding. Overall, Austin maintains steady economic growth and attracts businesses and workers.

Austin's real estate market has experienced rapid appreciation, driven by population growth and business expansion. Commercial real estate has also seen high demand, particularly for office spaces and industrial properties. As companies relocate or expand operations in the region, the city continues to invest in transportation, utilities, and public services to support economic development.

Information About Brokerage Services

Texas law requires all real estate license holders to give the following information about brokerage services to prospective buyers, tenants, sellers and landlords.

11-2-2015

TYPES OF REAL ESTATE LICENSE HOLDERS:

- A BROKER is responsible for all brokerage activities, including acts performed by sales agents sponsored by the broker.
- A SALES AGENT must be sponsored by a broker and works with clients on behalf of the broker.

A BROKER'S MINIMUM DUTIES REQUIRED BY LAW (A client is the person or party that the broker represents):

- Put the interests of the client above all others, including the broker's own interests;
- Inform the client of any material information about the property or transaction received by the broker;
- Answer the client's questions and present any offer to or counter-offer from the client; and
- Treat all parties to a real estate transaction honestly and fairly.

A LICENSE HOLDER CAN REPRESENT A PARTY IN A REAL ESTATE TRANSACTION:

AS AGENT FOR OWNER (SELLER/LANDLORD): The broker becomes the property owner's agent through an agreement with the owner, usually in a written listing to sell or property management agreement. An owner's agent must perform the broker's minimum duties above and must inform the owner of any material information about the property or transaction known by the agent, including information disclosed to the agent or subagent by the buyer or buyer's agent.

AS AGENT FOR BUYER/TENANT: The broker becomes the buyer/tenant's agent by agreeing to represent the buyer, usually through a written representation agreement. A buyer's agent must perform the broker's minimum duties above and must inform the buyer of any material information about the property or transaction known by the agent, including information disclosed to the agent by the seller or seller's agent.

AS AGENT FOR BOTH - INTERMEDIARY: To act as an intermediary between the parties the broker must first obtain the written agreement of each party to the transaction. The written agreement must state who will pay the broker and, in conspicuous bold or underlined print, set forth the broker's obligations as an intermediary. A broker who acts as an intermediary:

- Must treat all parties to the transaction impartially and fairly;
- May, with the parties' written consent, appoint a different license holder associated with the broker to each party (owner and buyer) to communicate with, provide opinions and advice to, and carry out the instructions of each party to the transaction.
- Must not, unless specifically authorized in writing to do so by the party, disclose:
 - that the owner will accept a price less than the written asking price;
 - that the buyer/tenant will pay a price greater than the price submitted in a written offer; and
 - any confidential information or any other information that a party specifically instructs the broker in writing not to disclose, unless required to do so by law.

AS SUBAGENT: A license holder acts as a subagent when aiding a buyer in a transaction without an agreement to represent the buyer. A subagent can assist the buyer but does not represent the buyer and must place the interests of the owner first.

TO AVOID DISPUTES, ALL AGREEMENTS BETWEEN YOU AND A BROKER SHOULD BE IN WRITING AND CLEARLY ESTABLISH:

- The broker's duties and responsibilities to you, and your obligations under the representation agreement.
- Who will pay the broker for services provided to you, when payment will be made and how the payment will be calculated.

LICENSE HOLDER CONTACT INFORMATION: This notice is being provided for information purposes. It does not create an obligation for you to use the broker's services. Please acknowledge receipt of this notice below and retain a copy for your records.
